

Twenty-sixth Sunday after Pentecost

1. Je - sus told this par - a - ble: "There once was a rich man.
2. Said the man, "What shall I do? My barns will hold no more.
3. Then the man said to him-self, "Re - lax! Eat well and drink!
4. On that night God said to him, "Oh fool, what can you know?
5. Je - sus said, "It works that way when grow - ing rich for self;

Full and plen-teous were his har - vests, more than was his plan."
I will build far larg - er ones and there place all my store."
I have bles-sings in re - serve for man - y years, I think!"
When I call you from this life, where will these rich - es go?"
Heed this, all who hear my words: in God place all your wealth!"

Refrain

Wake, a - wake, O sleep - er! and rise now from the dead!

Je - sus Christ will give you light, our ris - en, glo - rious Head!

Live as chil - dren of the Light, and by the Lord be led!

Text: J. Michael Thompson, based on Luke 12: 16-21 (vv. 1-5), Romans 6: 18-23 (refrain)

Melody: Christijane, proslavl'ajme / All the faithful come before you (traditional)
